It's washing its tail! Poor kitteh. Just because it looks like a monster doesn't mean it doesn't need a nice fleece coat and a heating pad.

My god, I'm turning into the Platypus.

oh... *WANT*... drat you internets and LJ because you show me the interesting things and wake up the thing-lust.

Black-thumbed Jemmy Casey, Pirate Cat of the Cumberland, asked me to say that he does not now, nor has he ever in the past worn sweaters, even cool pirate sweaters with skulls, although he does love yarn. A lot.

Tricia would certainly Not Approve. And you'd definitely get Stern Looks from your bosses; not only for the shaved head and the visible tat, but for the implied Thirteenth Amendment violation.

I know! You shave your head, dye your skull, and tell everyone you're part of that new theatrical sensation, Blue Ma'am Group!

Awww. I like Sphinx cats. They are good catses.

A lady I knew back in my rescue days has a Sphinx cat. Her kitty did therapy work at a local retirement home. The old folks loved the kitty; Sphinxes have higher than average body temperature due to the hairlessness, so they're snuggly warm all the time. This made them very popular for the folks with arthritic joints, who got to play with a vibrating (purring) hot water bottle that loved them.

I would pet the hairless kitty.
